A Message from the Executive Director

Welcome to the August issue of the Communicator.

Earlier this month, we sent a letter alerting you to an opportunity regarding your RIPEA membership. We recently made the difficult decision to raise annual membership fees from $15 to $18 beginning in 2019. But there is a way to keep your current rate of $15!

Allow us to deduct your annual RIPEA membership dues from your January PERF check and we'll keep your rate at $15. Further, through auto renewal you will never have to worry about whether you have active benefits or remember to send in your payment.

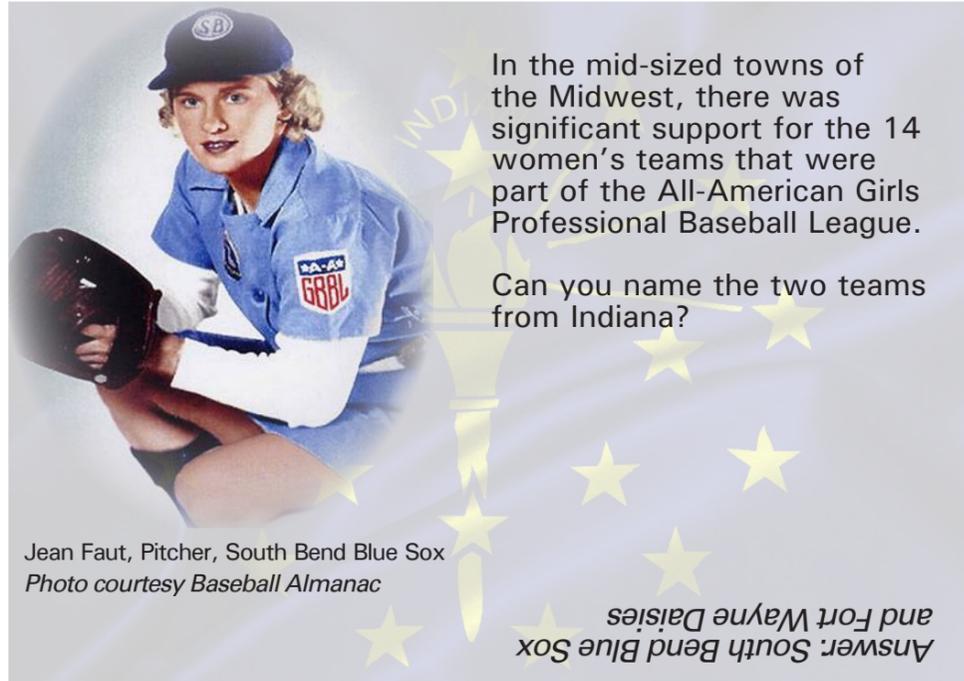

Membership to RIPEA is an investment that pays for itself. Thanks to your membership, you have additional income in the form of a 13th PERF check—a benefit we work with legislators to provide for you. There's also the host of insurance benefits, theft protection, and more, as well as our quarterly publication, the Communicator.

As always, please let us know if you have any questions! Sincerely,

Bill Murphy, Executive Director

28th Annual Convention—Make Plans Now

The countdown is on for this year's Annual Convention, taking place on September 10, 2018, once again at the Primo Conference Center in Indianapolis. Whether you're planning for retirement or already there, this year's lineup of speakers and vendors brings a wealth of expertise to one spot. Here's a look at what you can expect.

Doors Open: 9 a.m.
Official Welcome: 10 a.m.
Lunch: 12 p.m.
Door Prizes: 2:50 p.m.
Wrap-up: 3 p.m.

Pre-Planning vs. Crisis Planning
Carol Applegate is a registered nurse, family mediator and experienced elder law attorney. Her background in nursing and legal services gives her a unique perspective when dealing with pre-planning for seniors and their families. Carol's presentation will focus on the importance of pre-planning vs. crisis planning for seniors and their families. Many people have questions about the aging process especially when it comes to long-term care planning and how that will affect their finances. Carol will use some case studies in her presentation so RIPEA attendees can see the value of pre-planning instead of waiting for a crisis to seek counsel.

INPRS: What has changed, what will not
Led by Jeff Hutson from the Indiana Public Retirement System (INPRS), this session will help you learn what is new at INPRS and how it will affect you. You'll get the facts on how your PERF plan is doing and how confident you can be as a current or future retiree. We'll also talk about how RIPEA works with INPRS to improve service to you. We'll end with a chance for you to ask questions. The INPRS staff will be there all day to answer your individual questions.

Benefits of Physical Therapy in the Treatment of Pain
Are you experiencing pain? Do you want to avoid prescription medication? Avoid surgery? Molly Elgin, clinical supervisor at St. Vincent Therapeutic Services, will discuss the use of physical therapy to manage pain, regain flexibility & mobility, and increase strength to improve your health and quality of life. Her presentation will include conservative pain management; care that includes yoga, stress management, acupuncture, massage therapy, and physical therapy. Members who attend this year's RIPEA convention will have the opportunity to have their flexibility assessed at the St. Vincent Therapy Services vendor table and have their questions answered about physical therapy.

Financially Surviving & Thriving in Retirement
Tom Faulconer is a longtime Certified Financial Planner®, attorney, business professor, and financial counselor for active military personnel. He is known for making the complicated easy to understand. Tom will walk you through the basics of personal finance with an emphasis on retirement, explain some of the products available, and uncover some of the lesser-known concepts people can use and mistakes that people make in their finances. He will also show you resources that are available at no charge to help you avoid fraudulent and unsuitable sales pitches, advisers, and products. And, Tom will be available for questions.

Medicare Review, Medicare Supplements vs. Medicare Advantage Plans
Ross Page of Shepherd Insurance will provide a brief review of Medicare, including recent changes, with a comparison of Medicare supplements vs. Medicare Advantage Plans. Benefits not covered by Medicare but included in RIPEA's Medicare supplements will be covered as well. Page will also be available throughout the day to answer questions.
