

Federal Government

Department of Health and Human Services

Eldercare locator: <https://eldercare.acl.gov/Public/Index.aspx>

Department of Veteran's Affairs

Benefits: www.benefits.va.gov/benefits

Disaster Preparation

<https://www.ready.gov/>

Environmental Protection Agency

We all worry about the quality of our environment and the things and events that pollute it. The United States Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) website contains hundreds of environmental topics, environmental laws & regulations, air and water quality testing data, and information about the work being done at both the federal and local levels by the EPA. To learn about the air and water quality where you live and what you can do to help, go to the United States EPA website located at: <https://www.epa.gov/>.

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)

Actions you can take to lessen the impact of disasters: www.fema.gov.

Housing for Senior Citizens

If you have a very-low income and are in need of housing, go to this USA.gov Federal government website to find information about housing for senior citizens: <https://www.usa.gov/housing-help-audiences#item-36852>.

Indiana's U.S. Senators and Representatives

Indiana is a U.S. state with two senators in the United States Senate and nine representatives in the United States House of Representatives. Visit this site to find your representative: www.govtrack.us/congress

Internal Revenue Service

irs.gov

Medicaid

<https://www.medicaid.gov/>

Medicare

Medicare home page: www.Medicare.gov

A summary of Medicare parts A, B, C, & D can be found on the Retired Indiana Public Employees Association (RIPEA) website by going to: <https://www.ripea.org/view/download.php/resources/medicare-a-b-c-d>

If you are new to Medicare, before you chose your coverage, learn about the different parts of Medicare and steps to get you started with Medicare.

<https://www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers/your-medicare-coverage-choices>

Social Security Administration

www.ssa.gov

U.S. Government Services and Information

The following Internet site is a portal into a very large list of government agencies, information, and services. This site is very helpful when you don't know which government agency to contact. To access the online guide, go to: www.USA.gov

Protection Agency's (EPA) website contains hundreds of environmental topics, environmental laws & regulations, air and water quality testing data, and information about the work being done at both the federal and local levels by the EPA. To learn about the air and water quality where you live and what you can do to help, go to the United States EPA website located at: <https://www.epa.gov/>.

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)

Actions you can take to lessen the impact of disasters: www.fema.gov.

Housing for Senior Citizens

If you have a very-low income and are in need of housing, go to this USA.gov Federal government website to find information about housing for senior citizens: <https://www.usa.gov/housing-help-audiences#item-36852>.

Indiana's U.S. Senators and Representatives

Indiana is a U.S. state with two senators in the United States Senate and nine representatives in the United States House of Representatives. Visit this site to find your representative: www.govtrack.us/congress

Internal Revenue Service

irs.gov

Medicaid

<https://www.medicaid.gov/>

Medicare

Medicare home page: www.Medicare.gov

A summary of Medicare parts A, B, C, & D can be found on the Retired Indiana Public Employees Association (RIPEA) website by going to: <https://www.ripea.org/view/download.php/resources/medicare-a-b-c-d>

If you are new to Medicare, before you chose your coverage, learn about the different parts of Medicare and steps to get you started with Medicare. <https://www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers/your-medicare-coverage-choices>

Social Security Administration

www.ssa.gov

U.S. Government Services and Information

The following Internet site is a portal into a very large list of government agencies, information, and services. This site is very helpful when you don't know which government agency to contact. To access the online guide, go to: www.USA.gov

U.S. National Archives and Records Administration

Resources for genealogical (family tree)

research: www.archives.gov/research/genealogy